

Jamee Harrington is the Vice President of People, Culture, and Safety at Rogue Community College, where she oversees Human Resources, Risk Management, and Equity, Diversity, and Inclusion (EDI) departments and functions. RCC is a comprehensive three-campus public community college serving around 14,000 individual learners. Jamee joined RCC in 2013 and is inspired by the work being done throughout the college in support of student success and employee experience.

As an optimist and champion for creating cultures of inclusion and belonging, Jamee is passionate about having opportunities to listen, learn, build relationships, think holistically, and nurture curiosity. She holds a Bachelor's degree in Communication and a Master's degree in Management and Leadership. Jamee received her PHR in 2014 and SPHR in 2017 from the HR Certification Institute. She became a Certified Labor Relations Professional in 2019, awarded by the National Public Employer Labor Relations Association.

Jamee has attended SHRM events for many years and finally became a member in 2020. She is also a long-time member of the College and University Professional Association for Human Resources (CUPA-HR), currently serving on the national public policy committee. Jamee was one of six higher education HR professionals from across the country selected for the 2021-22 CUPA-HR Emerging Leaders cohort.

While much of her career has been dedicated to higher education HR, Jamee also looks forward to serving the broader profession locally with Rogue Valley SHRM.

When Jamee is not working, you can usually find her hanging with her family, hiking, reading, dancing, or cheering her kids on at their sporting events. Jamee's favorite "sport" is karaoke and, outside of the pandemic, she's almost always up for meeting friends at the mic.
